New and used car dealers are in business not only to sell cars but also to repair and service these cars. They also need to get their inventory on the web and in print advertisement and also print windows stickers for their inventory. Part of this process is having an up to date and supported VinDecoder. They need to print window stickers as well. VIN data normalization is key. Accurate data and normalization allow the car dealers to easily, efficiently, and accurately showcase the data of their vehicles for sale.
